Q1. Read the following passage carefully.

Once upon a time there was a trader. He would play a favourite trick on every maleservant he employed. He would hire him on two conditions. First, the servant was expected to do exactly as he was told. Secondly, he had to work on trial for a month. The servants would gladly accept the conditions as the wages were quite attractive.

(Para-1)

The trader would ask his servants to do something very difficult. Ultimately, they would be removed from their job without getting any wages. Once the trader employed a boy on the same terms. The boy was very clever. He understood the trick of the trader. Towards the end of the month, the boy was asked to bring a thing from the market which was never heard of before by anyone. He brought an empty box from the market and presented the employer. (Para-2)

On the basis of your reading of the above passage, answer the following questions.
